

Team 1 Homenote

AnchorPoint Christian School

5/22/2017

Dear Parents,

Field day is scheduled for this week Wednesday. The event will go on even if we have wet weather. Please help your child dress for the morning outside.

Thank you for remembering that our class is a peanut free class. There have been a few occasions when crackers and peanut butter have come out during snack. This causes quite a concern with the kids. If you send a "nut free" spread with your child please let them know or write a note in the lunch box.

This week Thursday our preschool buddies will have their graduation from preschool. It will be our last time to see them. During the program Team 1 will sing a song with their buddies. The program begins at 9:00 and you are welcome to come and enjoy it.

Team 1 Information

A look at our week

In Bible Paul continues his missionary journeys. We will also learn about his dealings with the Jewish leaders. This week in Math the Youngers will take another look at fractional parts, review telling time and continue to work on addition facts. The Olders are working with money and money notation. In literacy work we will begin reviewing all the word wall words. Our sound chunks will be a review of "ar, er, ir, ur, or". Daily reading has been a big part in our day at school. Sharing reading at home helps your child continue the practice. In Science our focus will be liquids and solids. The kids will investigate the differences between the two. Are there any similarities?

Please feel free to contact me with any questions that may arise.
