

Team 1 Homenote

AnchorPoint Christian School

10/30/2017

Dear Parents,

The last days of October are here. That means our first reading calendar may be turned in for a Pizza Hut certificate. The November calendar will come home on Wednesday. I am excited to see all of the calendars get turned in. If the calendar was misplaced and your child has read 5-7 nights per week, send me a note and this month I will give your child the certificate.

Once in a while accidents occur; spilled milk, bathroom misses, etc. If you have clothing that your child has grown out of - pants, shorts, especially, we could use them here at school.

We are running low on pretzels and animal crackers. If you could send in a bag of either one that would be fantastic! The last part of the school day can be long, with a quick snack the kids can make it.

A look at our week

In Bible we are learning about Jacob. He tricked his brother and now he is tricked. God is in control and uses Jacob for His purpose. In math The Youngers will discover "pairs" and "not pairs" numbers. We will learn that they are called even and odd numbers. The Olders are working hard on subtraction facts. They will learn some strategies to use. Later this week there will be a review of the unit. This week our literacy work will focus on the "ea" and "ee" chunk. They can both sound the same in words. We will spend time looking for examples in our reading and practice writing some words with these chunks. In our Science we will learn about our eyes this week. We will talk about ways to keep them healthy. Our eyes are an important part of our body and help us receive information about God's world.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions that may arise.
